

The Internet Changed Everything!

Connection! If you had to describe in one word how the Internet changed everything, it would be connection. Businesses and personal relationships have changed due to the Internet's ability to instantly connect people globally through e-mail, websites and social networking sites such as Facebook and MySpace. The immeasurable connection that the Internet created has changed the way the world communicates, gathers and sends information, and markets its products and services.

However, this global connection has created a problem for the local business in their local markets.

Why?

1. Traditional print advertising is becoming less effective.
2. Most consumers have traded in their Yellow Pages for a more comprehensive online search.
3. Newspaper readership is down with many papers declaring bankruptcy.
4. DVR devices, such as TiVo, allow people to skip commercials.
5. Search results bring information overload and local businesses get lost.
6. Search results are dominated by large companies.

Did you know?

- 97% of people with online access will research products and services online before they purchase.
- 80% of people that search never click beyond the first page.
- 55% of all local searches are done with an intent to buy.
- Of all local searches, 8 out of 10 call or visit a store and 60% of those result in a purchase.

Why AdzZoo?

Traditional advertising, in today's highly competitive market, has proven to be insufficient in helping many small businesses grow. Newspaper and Yellow Page readership continues to decline, while the cost to run ads is increasing.

Why advertise in a declining market?

Why spend more money to reach fewer people?

A web presence in today's online environment is a must for business owners that don't want to die a death of attrition as old customers leave to competitors that have a web presence.

Taming the Internet One Click at a Time

What is a Web Presence?

We all know the old saying, “What are the 3 most important factors in buying real estate?” “Location, Location, Location!” Think of the Internet as the real estate of the 21st century. The location of your online information matters.

With over 1 trillion websites in the world and growing, it’s not enough just to have your business somewhere online. To be competitive, one must have their information where online traffic exists. Where does traffic exist? Traffic is where people go to get their news, entertainment, sports scores, recipes, shop, connect with friends, family and businesses on thousands of popular websites. People look for information, products and services globally, nationally, regionally, and locally on the premium pages of search engines. As a matter of fact, over 80% of people never click beyond the first page. Traffic is on smart phones and GPS devices. A website may get your business online, but not where your customer can easily find it. AdzZoo gets clients a web presence and local online traffic.

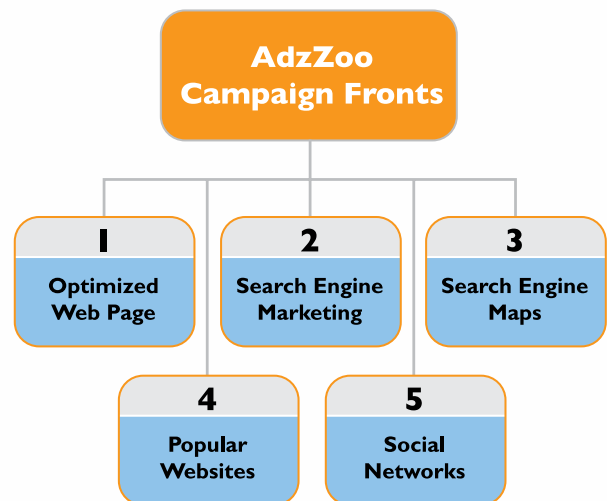

Geo-Targeting

By utilizing the process known as geo-targeting, the physical location of a web searcher is determined, and then specific content is delivered to them based on the nature of their inquiry. Simply put, geo-targeting enables local businesses to be matched with local searches.

How does it work?

1. Optimized Web Page: Designed to work with major search engines for online exposure.
2. Search Engine Marketing: Enables local businesses to be matched with local searches.
3. Search Engine Maps: Put your business on the map!
4. Popular Websites: Your geo-targeted ad on high traffic websites like CNN, Food Network, AOL, and thousands of others.
5. Social Networks: Demographically targeted marketing to specific people, markets, and interest.

Campaign Monitoring & Reporting

All campaigns are monitored and fine tuned on a regular basis for optimal online exposure. Online access for reports will be available May 1st.
